- Definition:
 - Dignity talking in a moral, ethnical, legal and political concept is the value that a person has to be valued, honoured and respected by others.
- Chernobyl disaster:
 - The accident at Chernobyl nuclear power plant in Ukraine was in April 26, 1986. It was caused by a flawed reactor design. After the terrible accident, there were many deaths, both of children and adults, the IAEA omitted more than half of deaths from the Chernobyl accident, this failed to dignity because the families of the death people had the right to know if a family member had died and the IAEA didn't respect neither the death people nor the families.
